C&S CARES ANNOUNCES ITS CITY-WIDE “SAVE A LIFE HEALTH TOUR” In Collaboration with the NAACP and KTSU 90.9

HOUSTON, TEXAS - To address the significant health disparities pandemic in Houston’s urban communities, the “Save A Life Health Tour” will provide underserved communities with equitable access to health care and resources via FREE Mobile Clinics. The C&S Care Team along with collaborative partners, the NAACP and KTSU 90.9, have come together to meet the urgent needs.

Michael Crockett, President and CEO of C&S Cares stated, “Eighty percent of individuals between 19 and 64 do not have adequate access to healthcare, insurance, and life improvement educational resources. However, most of them qualify for free premium healthcare. Our team will be available to help educate the people regarding their health numbers and let them know how to navigate complex healthcare systems to obtain quality care and affordable benefits. We must make the system fair and equitable for all so, this is our way of helping those in need”.

The Save A Life Health Tour has formed collaborations with key community leaders that have “boots on the ground” access within these communities. The services will be provided by licensed care providers along with the professional resources team that will help the community residents navigate insurance, and health provider solutions. The mobile units provide immediate access to life saving and sustaining care and resources to provide health screenings that let residents know their current health condition and provides them with solutions that can direct them to care, and preventative measures where needed. The C&S Care Team endeavors to increase health equity in Houston and its surrounding communities by helping people understand their numbers, know where they can get health services, and how they can afford quality care.

Multiple locations will be available and additional ones will be added.
